"The longer I live the more certain I am that the great difference between people, the feeble and the powerful, the great and the insignificant, is energy and invincible determination—a purpose one fixed, and then death or victory. That ability will do anything that can be done in this world and no talents, no circumstances, no opportunities will

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I have a girl friend of whom my parents disapprove. They threaten to make me leave home if I do not stop visiting her. I am 18 years old and my friend is six months my junior. I think a great deal of her. What would you advise me to do?

WORRIED.

The judgment of parents, in these matters, is never amiss. The eyes of maturity see with a clearer vision than those of youth and inexperience. You are not too old to obey your parents, and by so doing you will be saved the suffering that will come from the penalty that always follows disobedience.
