RIDES TWO MILES CLINGING TO TIRE

Everett Man Jumps on Auto After Crash

Captures Man Who Shouted "Try and Get Me"

EVERETT, Jan 1—Following a two-mile ride on the spare tire of an automobile driven by an alleged drunken autoist and a further pursuit of several blocks in a commandeered machine, Horace Parsons, 21, of 21 Orange ct, early today captured a man who, he says, yelled "Try and get me" and then drove away after a head-on collision with his car on Cottage st.

Parsons' prisoner, who was later booked on a drunkenness charge at Everett Police Headquarters, was Malcolm MacRae, of 31 Oak Island road, Revere.

Ben Parsons, brother of Horace, and a passenger in his car at the time of the collision, injured his forehead in the crash. The Parsons car was badly damaged.

According to the story told the police by Horace Parsons, he was driving along Cottage st towards Everett sq when he was in head-on collision with a sedan. He said he got out to inspect the damage. As he did so, he said the other driver yelled "Try and get me" and speeded off.

Parsons said he gave chase on foot and made a flying leap for the spare tire in the rear of the other car. He landed safely and clung on for dear life until the car reached Beach st, Revere, which is two miles from the scene of the crash.

At this point another car containing James Starkey, Martin Flanagan, and Vincent Corbett raced abreast of the sedan. The men yelled to Parsons to jump off. He did so and then resumed pursuit in their car.

The car containing the four men succeeded in heading off MacRae after a furious race for several blocks. The latter was forced to stop. The four men then pounced on him.

Parsons took his prisoner to the home of Angus MacRae at 28 Autumn st, this city, where the police were notified and patrolman James O'Donnell called for Parsons' prisoner.
