Driver Blacks Out; 60 Pupils On Bus Saved

Two police officers rescued 60 children aboard a moving school bus this morning when the driver suffered insulin shock and passed out.

Officers Nelson L. Brownson and William Morgan were in a patrol wagon near Alameda and Macy streets when the bus went through a stop sign and weaved from side to side.

Observing that the driver was slumped over the wheel, Morgan drove the police wagon alongside the bus and Brownson leaped aboard.

Brownson drove the bus to Our Lady Queen of Angels School at 725 Castelar St., while Morgan rushed the driver, Frank Ramos, 51, of 2011 Huron St., to Lincoln Heights Receiving Hospital.
